"Let's Go Out and Paint the Town Red!" Borough Planning to Decorate Sidewalks

Will a swath of red paint, emulating the proverbial red carpet, soon appear down the center of the Nassau Street sidewalk? Or perhaps a footprint bigger than life will be painted on the sidewalk in front of Ricchard's?

Will there be a painting of a stroller in front of Allen's? Or perhaps a bucolic grazing sheep in front of Landau's?

All these ideas — and more — are possible now that Borough Council has given its approval to painting the sidewalks in the public right of way on Nassau Street.

The idea was presented to Council last week by Henry Landau of Landau's, who said that street art might beautify the sidewalks until they can be reconstructed in the spring. The paths in question — rolling plains of asphalt that stretch along the storefronts from Witherspoon to Vandeventer — were torn up in the spring in order to install a new sewer line. They will not be replaced with a more permanent surface until spring of next year in order to allow property owners time to connect their laterals to the new line.

Mr. Landau said he wants to enhance what is there now. "It's dirty because no one goes out and sweeps — you can't sweep hills and valleys." He also hopes to add a bit of fun to a situation he describes as "right now not fun; it's watching where you walk." And he'd like to involve the currently somewhat disheartened merchants in a positive effort.

Mr. Landau suggested that the art departments of area schools, including Princeton High School, be asked to help design the sidewalks, based on suggestions by store owners.

Mayor Sigmund, who said she would like to create community fun out of what is now an eyesore, formed a committee to coordinate the sidewalk painting effort. It consists of Mr. Landau, Ann Reeves of the Arts Council, and Julia Winarsky, a resident of Elm Court.

Basic TV Cable Rate Will Increase in Cost

The monthly bill for Princeton's 4,150 cable subscribers will go up November 1. Whether the basic cost rises to $18.95 or $16.45, from its current $15, will be decided within 30 days by ComVideo, the company that acquired the Home Link franchise in October, 1986. The cost for premium channels will remain the same.

The more expensive option will retain the dual cable system presently in operation, and all current channels will continue to be offered. This system also has the capacity for accommodating future additional channels.

The cheaper option would convert the system to a single cable. This would require dropping ten channels and would not allow the addition of future channels. Those to be dropped include BET, which offers black programming, two Spanish language stations,

Five-Lot Subdivision Is Planned For 43 Acres of Jasna Polana

Plans have been filed at the Planning Board for a five-lot subdivision of 43 acres of the Jasna Polana estate on Route 206. The plans have been filed on behalf of Barbara Piasecka Johnson, wife of the late J. Seward Johnson and owner of the property.

Each of the proposed lots would consist of from seven-plus to nine-plus acres. An access road, to be called Linden Drive, is shown entering the property to the left of the Georgian brick mansion that fronts on Route 206. Laid part-way over an existing dirt driveway, which would be widened and paved, Linden Drive would pass an existing swimming pool and provide access to a new residence which Mrs. Johnson is in the process of completing on one of the lots. The road then curves to the left, toward Province Line, and ends in a cul-de-sac.

Each of the five lots, including the lot with the new home, would front on this road. Planning Board approval is required when existing lots are subdivided and when new roadways are proposed. The application has been classified as a "major" subdivision.

The plans show that Mrs. Johnson has had percolation tests performed on each of the proposed lots, because municipal sewer is not presently available in the area. Frank Quinby of Princeton Junction Engineering has done the engineering for the project, and McCarthy and Schatzman is the law firm representing Mrs. Johnson in the application.

Mrs. Johnson was not required to go before the Planning Board for the single dwelling which is now being completed on the property. Plans were filed last winter with the Township Building Inspector Betty Jablonski who has monitored the construction and expects to issue a certificate of occupancy this week. According to Ms. Jablonski, the house will be occupied by a "manager."

The new residence is a spacious, two-story, stucco house with a mansard-style roof and a two-car garage. Its 9,155 square feet include living room, dining room, library, kitchen, and maid's quarters on the ground floor, four bedrooms and family room on the second. There is also a Jacuzzi room of solid marble, and Ms. Jablonski says that the cost of the special panelling in the library came to $500,000.

The residence has been constructed on a portion of the property that received a farmland assessment of $1,000 an acre, considerably less than regular residential assessment. Two-acre unimproved lots in the Toll Brothers Heatherstone development across Route 206 are presently assessed between $81,000 and $85,000.

University Proposing 60 Additional Units In Its Butler Housing

Princeton University's proposal to add 60 units to the graduate student housing known as the Butler tract will be reviewed by the Planning Board's Site Plan Advisory Review Board this week. A special meeting of the advisory board has been called for Thursday at 7:30 in the Valley Road building. The housing proposal is the only item on the agenda.

There are 240 existing units in the Butler tract, which lies between Sycamore Road and Hartley Avenue off Harrison Street. Sixty additional units will bring the total to 310. According to an agreement between the Township and the University, 45 of the new units are to be designated as contributing to the Township's fair share quota of low and moderate income housing.

Plans on file at the Planning Board show 38 new units located in infill locations throughout the existing complex. Twenty-two will be constructed in a row at the far end of the complex and in a cluster development in the southeast corner of the site — near the bend in Hartley Avenue. Some 1.7 acres of woodland at the far end of the tract will have to be cleared to make way for the new units, and a community vegetable garden will have to be relocated.

Some of the units are proposed to be barrier-free, with access ramps for wheelchairs. A new community room/laundry room is proposed, and recreation areas, such as tot lots and volleyball courts are shown on the plan.

The proposed housing has been designed by John Zvozec to blend in with the existing Butler tract. Separate one-story buildings will contain from one to four individual units, with each unit 735 square feet. Each will have two bedrooms, bath, small kitchen, and living room/dining area.

The University is requesting a reduction in the number of parking spaces that it is required to provide. Instead of the two spaces per unit required in the ordinance, it is proposing a ratio of 1.1 cars per unit for a total of 350 spaces. The Planning Board's consultants, Wallace Robert & Todd of Philadelphia, recommend a 1.2 ratio, and some extra spaces for overflow, for a total of 375 spaces.

Cable

A.P. News, WNYE, and VH-1, a soft-rock station. Six public channels, including the Borough and Township, would be consolidated into one.

Two additional cable channels will be added to the service on September 15, no matter which option is selected by the company. These are the Madison Square Garden (MSG) network, and the Financial News Network (FNN).

ComVideo's attorney, Rinaldo M. D'Argenio, told Borough Council last week that Home Link lost $1.9 million in its first two years of operation, and that the system was still operating at a loss. He said that Prime Cable and Dow Jones formed Home Link. "Then they lost money, and Prime sold the system. Dow Jones now doesn't want anything to do with cable."

During the Council meeting, Borough Clerk Penney Carter asked why the only black programming network was slated to be cut. She was told by officials of ComVideo that the decision on which channels to eliminate was based on a survey sent out several months ago to cable subscribers.

Councilman Marvin Reed said that there had been an elaborate study in the Princeton community to determine which company would be awarded the cable franchise. "There is a question as to whether the company, with its new owner, is still living up the franchise agreement."

Mr. D'Argenio replied that Congress, when it deregulated the cable industry, threw out as unenforceable many of the things that came up during franchising hearings.

"Do you mean that the community now has no way to guarantee the service we had requisitioned?" asked Mr. Reed. "Federal deregulation allows cable companies to make changes unilaterally," replied the attorney.

Company officials will appear before Township Committee later this month to explain the reasons for the rate increase, although it needs no permission from either of the town's governing bodies. They are also expected to meet with former members of Princeton's cable advisory committee to receive input on which of the two options would be preferred by the community.

ComVideo, whose ultimate parent is Commonwealth Telephone, currently has 1600 cable subscribers in the Borough and 2550 in the Township. Information on the rate hike is expected to be sent to these subscribers by October 1.

Borough Intensifying Efforts to Find a Site For Affordable Rental Housing by Sept. 27

With the potential loss of $1.6 million in federal housing money just weeks away, Borough Council has intensified its efforts to find a site for 20 units of low-income rental housing.

Councilman Mark Freda hopes to meet this week with representatives of the Unitarian Church and an adjacent property owner, both owners of land that could be used for a needed right-of-way to a proposed site on Route 206. The property on which the Borough would like the Housing and Urban Development (HUD)-financed housing built is across from Valley Road and is owned by Princeton Township.

The land, which is bounded by Community Park North and the Unitarian Church, was first considered as a site in June. But the need for access to the site has remained a stumbling block since.

This past Friday, Mr. Freda informed members of the Site Plan Review Advisory Board (SPRAB) that the Borough was considering a small section of the sewer operating fields, off River Road, as a possible site for the housing, but was also attempting to salvage the property next to the Unitarian Church. September 27 is the current HUD deadline for coming up with a site before the money is lost to Princeton.

Forty-eight percent of the sewer operating fields is owned by the Borough. Princeton University and Princeton Township own the balance. Mr. Freda was told by the University last week that it would be more than willing to donate its equity if this land were to be used for affordable housing.

The sewer lands have other problems, however. They are subject to Township zoning, and the Township, says Mr. Freda, will be rezoning shortly. In addition, he believes the State would force testing of the area to make sure there was no build-up of methane gas. This process could take up to a year.

At last week's meeting of Borough Council, Mayor Sigmond said she was certain developers' money could be used to buy land as well as purchase any needed rights-of-way.

"We see a potential development in Princeton Township where developers are buying out of their obligation [to construct affordable housing] by putting money in a trust fund," said the Borough mayor. "This has the possibility of growing to many millions of dollars with no place to use it."

E. Karin Slaby, executive director of the Princeton Housing Authority, which would operate the HUD housing, said she had not received a positive response from Township Mayor Firestone on this. "She said that if the money did become available, it would be a long time coming," reported Ms. Slaby.

Councilman Marvin Reed said he would be willing to sell some of the property on the sewer fields in order to buy land closer to town for the housing.

Mr. Freda plans to appear before Township Committee in September to gain its cooperation in locating a site for the 20 units of low-income family housing. Currently, there are about 175 applications filed with the Princeton Housing Authority, going back to 1980, for such housing.

Township Woman Named Miss New Jersey Finalist

Kelly Bencze, 18, a 1986 graduate of Princeton Day School and a sophomore at Skidmore College, was named one of five semi-finalists in the Miss New Jersey/USA pageant held at the Somerset Hilton on Sunday. The daughter of Jeff and Nola DuFour, 86 Greenway Terrace, Ms. Bencze was one of 101 young women selected to participate in the pageant out of 1,000 who submitted applications.

She said the experience was a lot of fun, from the rehearsals on Friday night, through the semi-finals on Saturday, to the finals on Sunday. "It isn't really competitive. Everyone helps everyone else. The girl who won had a million and one buttons on her gown, and we all helped her."

The three categories in the contest, all equal, are personality, bathing suit, and evening gown.

Four years ago, Ms. Bencze was named a semi-finalist in the Miss Teen New Jersey pageant, which is operated by the same people who run the Miss New Jersey/USA contest. She enjoyed the contest and made a lot of friends. "It was a different experience — not like anything I'd done before," she said.

Ms. Bencze is majoring in biology and business at Skidmore, and she wants eventually to work in these areas. But she would also like to model or act for a while, and believes that entering beauty pageants is a way of achieving her goal. "A lot of people in the modeling and acting fields go to them, or help judge them," she notes. "It can help you meet these people and open a lot of doors."

She was encouraged by the judges to enter again next year, and she plans to do so. "They said that one of the reasons I wasn't picked as Miss New Jer-

Trenton Teen Is Charged With Possession of Drug

An 18-year-old Trenton resident, Tara Cucchiaro, has been charged by Borough police with possession of a controlled dangerous substance and possession of alcohol. She is scheduled to appear in Borough court this Wednesday.

According to Chief Michael Carnevale, Miss Cucchiaro was observed Thursday afternoon by concerned residents staggering along Elm Road. They came to her assistance and called police.

When police arrived they observed that Miss Cucchiaro appeared to be under the influence of drugs and needed medical attention. She was immediately taken to Princeton Medical Center where she was admitted for treatment and held overnight.

Chief Carnevale reported that police found two cans of beer in Miss Cucchiaro's possession and a substance believed to be methamphetamine. "We are waiting for a lab report to confirm it," Chief Carnevale said.

Found a Park Bench? One Stolen Last Week

Further proof that thieves will steal anything not nailed down came with the report early last week that a hock steel park bench, valued at $500, had been stolen from in front of Davidson's Market on Nassau Street.

Police report the bench, with a wooden slat seat, had been left in the parking lot area prior

Road Closing Extended

A portion of Cherry Hill Road will be closed to traffic longer than first expected.

Sgt. Mario Musso, the Township's Traffic Safety Officer, said this week that repairmen are experiencing difficulty in blasting the hard rock in the area. Consequently, the roadway will be closed another three weeks before reopening about September 21.

Existing detours will remain in effect.

to its being permanently bolted to a concrete slab. It was taken overnight.

Articles of clothing drying on a rack on the rear porch of a Quarry Street home were stolen during the day last week. Taken were a $49 blouse, a matching $45 skirt and a second blouse valued at $30.

While Ptl. Steven Riccitello was investigating the theft, another Quarry Street resident approached and informed him that the previous day, someone had stolen two beach towels from her back yard.

While the building had been evacuated last Tuesday because workmen had ruptured a gas main in the area, someone stole two AM-FM cassette radios valued at $80 and $60 from an office in Frick Lab on the university campus. The victims told police they noticed the radios were missing upon their return at 1:30.

Another theft occurred at approximately the same time at nearby Campus Club which had also been evacuated. The victim told police that someone had entered her unlocked, second-floor room and stolen a $200 stereo tape cassette and her wallet. The wallet, valued at $40, contained credit cards and her university ID card but no cash.

Between June 22 and August 7, someone looted the glove compartment of a 1985 Saab owned by a Prospect Avenue resident. Included in the $745 loss are a tape recorder, camera, leather passport case and $50 cash.

The victim told Township police the car had frequently been left unlocked during those months.

Driver Loses Control; Small Car Overturns

A small car overturned last week on Faculty road after its driver lost control on a curve.

The driver, 23-year-old Paul M. Krasnansky of Trenton, told police that as he was driving on Faculty between Washington Road and Fitzrandolph, his small Honda Civic swerved into the opposite lane while he was rounding a curve. When he tried to steer back, his car began to go out of control.

When Mr. Krasnansky applied his brakes, it caused the car to spin 180 degrees and skid back toward the right side of the roadway. It then struck the curb and flipped over on its roof.

Issued a summons for careless driving by Ptl. James Strong, Mr. Krasnansky refused treatment for bruises and contusions he sustained in last Wednesday's mishap. His car, its front and rear tires punctured and flattened from the impact with the curb, was towed to Larini's Service Station on Alexander Road.

The driver, a resident of Nelson Ridge Road, told Township police that as she was heading east on Cherry Valley, the van's gas pedal became stuck, causing the engine to race. Unable to stop the roaring engine, she pulled over to the side of the road and then noticed smoke coming from the rear engine compartment. After she managed to get her children out safely, she called police.

Chief Jack Petrone reported when police arrived on the scene, the rear of the van was "fully engulfed in flames." Fireman arrived later and managed to extinguish the flames with foam but the van, commented Chief Petrone, "was completely gone."

Concern Is Expressed By Taxi Owners' Group

A series of concerns were voiced at last week's meeting of Borough Council by Princeton Taxi Owners Association President Thomas Moore.

He said that several firms are operating in the Borough without the necessary permission from Borough Council, and that one, Salem Limousine, drops passengers at home instead of at the Nassau Inn, which is supposed to be the drop-off point.

Borough Clerk Penney Carter said that limousine firms are required to obtain a resolution from Borough Council approving their route. She said this has not been done by Princeton Airporter or A-1 Limousine.

Mr. Moore pointed out that the Borough has ordinances 28 taxis and 10 liveries, and said there were others out on the street. "Olympic acquired two livery licenses," he said, "but they can utilize any of their 200 cars to complete service. And Beck and Call is utilizing three cars with one license."

Unless you specify those cars that are licensed, and make sure they have some sort of identification, there is no way anyone can know if the licensed car is the one being used, explained Ms. Carter.

A committee consisting of the Borough clerk, the Borough attorney, and several police officers was set up by Mayor and Council to review the livery situation and the complaints voiced by Mr. Moore.

Last Call for Prize Tomato

The Recreation Department is once again sponsoring its "Prize Princeton Tomato" contest for tomatoes grown in Princeton Township or Borough.

Those who think they have a tomato plump enough to win the grand prize may stop in the Recreation Office with their entry. The tomato will be weighed and its measurements recorded. A winner will be announced in late September.

The deadline is September 11. Contestants may enter more than one tomato, but must be home grown in Princeton soil. For additional information, call 921-9480.

ment and First Aid Squad are scheduled to begin a combined drive to recruit additional volunteers within the next two weeks.

Assistant Fire Chief Mark Freda, a member of Borough Council, said the two volunteer organizations are hoping to attract people who are going to be around for a while. "We need to build up a core of local people who will be here a long time," he said.

The First Aid Squad is currently at about 35 members. It should be at about 50, said Mr. Freda. In addition, about a quarter to a third are Princeton University students, who usually have to leave the squad upon graduation.

The Fire Department is hoping to increase its numbers by 36; it would like to have 12 additional volunteers at each of its three fire stations.

Anyone interested in volunteering, or who would like further information, should call Theresa Cuppels at Borough Hall, 924-3119.

Volunteers Are Sought For Probation Program

The Mercer County Volunteers in Probation program is looking for persons to work one-to-one with juveniles who are considered to be at risk of developing delinquent patterns of behavior. The program provides the guidance and supervision these youngsters need to grow into productive citizens. There are no minimum education or experience requirements for those who wish to participate. All volunteers are screened, trained and supervised by the program coordinator. Training includes active listening skills, and covers adolescent development, substance abuse and decision-making techniques.

Further information on the upcoming fall training sessions will be available at a one-hour orientation meeting on Friday, September 25, at 7:30 p.m. and Saturday, September 26, at 10 a.m. The meetings will be held in the Mercer County Administration Building, 640 South Broad Street, Room 211.

63 Courses for Fall Term
Sixty-three courses, ranging from language study to wine tasting, are scheduled for the Princeton Adult School's fall term. Registration is now in progress for the ten-week session, which starts on October 1. Forms for registering by mail appear in the fall course brochure, which has been mailed to area residents, and in ads in area newspapers. Additional course brochures are available at libraries, banks and offices in the Princeton area.

Early registration by mail is advised, but there will be an opportunity for enrolling in person on Thursday, September 17, from 7 to 9 p.m. at the Princeton High School cafeteria. Students enrolling in the ESOL (English for Speakers of Other Languages) courses must appear at that time for placement interviews.

"Growing Pains: the Urbanization of Princeton" is the title of a series of seven Tuesday evening lectures by experts on various aspects of growth and expansion in the Princeton region.

A Thursday evening series will present "Classic Films of the Middle East," with commentary by specialists from the Princeton and New York University faculties.

Instruction in French, German, Italian and Spanish will be offered at various levels. Courses in beginning Russian and Spanish for Travelers are new additions to the language program.

Art courses will include studio classes in painting and drawing and music courses in recorder, guitar and piano. Also offered are lecture courses on contemporary drama, music appreciation and post-impressionist art, as well as classes in photography, crafts, bridge and auto maintenance.

Instruction in American Sign Language (the language used by the deaf) and a Real Estate Salesperson Training Course are among special business and professional offerings, along with classes in computing, word processing, income tax preparation and financial planning.

Other offerings include a study of autumn wildflowers, migrating birds and the Pine Barrens; classes in French, Italian, Japanese and microwave cooking; and a special course on wine appreciation, which will meet at the Nassau Club. Exercise and dance classes are also available.

Classes, with a few exceptions, meet at Princeton High School on Tuesday and Thursday evenings; courses vary in length from four to ten weeks. Modest course fees are set only to cover costs of operation, since the Adult School is a non-profit, independent organization, planned and administered by a volunteer board. The Princeton Regional Board of Education supports the program by making school facilities available.

Further information about the Adult School's fall program may be obtained by calling 683-1101 on Monday, Tuesday or Thursday evenings between 7 and 9 p.m. before September 17.

Commemoration Planned
Of "War of the Worlds"

The War of the Worlds Committee, which is planning the 50th-anniversary observance of the fictional Martian landing at Grovers Mill Pond, has formed a committee to seek corporate sponsorship of the event.

Chairman of the Corporate Leadership Committee is Donald J. Loff, senior vice-president, investments, for Prudential-Bache Securities, Inc., Princeton.

Approximately $200,000 will be needed to promote the event. West Windsor Township has already given the committee $30,000 in seed money, and the New Jersey Department of Travel and Tourism has given it a $2,000 grant.

The celebration will commemorate the radio broadcast of a Martian landing at Grovers Mill, which was presented by Orson Welles on Halloween, 1938. Among the plans for the event are a bicycle race, an Orson Welles film festival, lectures on Mars by NASA representatives, and a black-tie dinner dance with music of the era. Chairman of the War of the Worlds steering committee is Douglas R. Forrester.

For information about corporate sponsorship, call Mr. Loff at 987-0123.

in 1978. She has taught English and music at the Hartridge School and the Wardlaw-Hartridge School in Plainfield, and for the past ten years she taught middle school English at Princeton Day School, where she has also served as Middle School English department head.

By special arrangement with Princeton Day School, Ms. Wilson will teach language arts and music on a part-time basis at Princeton Friends School this year, while continuing to teach English to sixth and seventh graders at PDS.

Ms. Whittier grew up in Chapel Hill, N.C., where she attended Carolina Friends School for eight years. During her upper school years she worked with children in the lower grades as part of the Carolina Friends School service program. She attended Mount Holyoke College, graduating with a B.A. in history in 1986. During her college years Ms. Whittier worked extensively with children, student teaching in a bilingual fifth-grade class in Holyoke, Mass., and working in the Gorse Child Study Center and the South Hadley Child Care Association.

During a year off from college she worked as an intern at My Sister's Place, a center for homeless women and children in Baltimore, Md., and during the summer of 1983 she taught music, creative movement and dance at the Leuthe Peterson Camp, an international camp in Manigod, France. Last year Ms. Whittier worked on a carpentry crew in the Princeton area and this summer she participated in a language study program in Madrid. She will teach Spanish, music, movement, woodworking and language arts during the coming year.

Ms. Fremon, director of the school, will teach language arts, math, social studies, science, and arts to all grades at Princeton Friends School. She grew up in Princeton, earning an A.B. in English from Princeton University in 1975. She received a master's degree in elementary education at the Bank Street College of Education in 1978. For six years she taught at the public school in Roosevelt, and for the past six

Pssst! Want to Keep Your Bike? Register It Now With The Police

Seven bicycles, ranging from an $800 racing bike to a three-year-old girl's $25 tricycle, were stolen last week in the Borough.

The racing bike, an unlocked, 12-speed Fuji model, was taken early last week from an open carport of a Battle Road home; the tricycle was stolen Friday from the front lawn of a home on North Stanworth Drive.

"We have a lot of bicycle thefts throughout the year, but this seems to be a higher number than normal," acknowledged Chief Michael Carnevale.

When asked what advice he could offer bicycle owners, Chief Carnevale replied that the least of measures that should be taken is to lock the bike. "It makes it more difficult," he said, "but we've found if someone wants a bicycle bad enough they'll find a way to take it. They'll remove a wheel or cut a chain — there's no sure way of securing a bicycle."

Still, one good deterrent, Chief Carnevale suggested, is to purchase a hardened steel, Kryptonite type of lock. "When these locks are used it deters most thieves from stealing," he said.

Chief Carnevale also strongly urged bike owners to take advantage of a free bicycle registration program that was announced in June by Borough and Township police and the Princeton University Department of Public Safety for students and residents.

To register a bicycle, the owner should take it to his or her respective police department or University Security and fill out pertinent information on a registration card. A blue and silver sticker is attached to each bicycle for identification. The information and identification number of each sticker will then be stored in a computer to provide police with immediate access in the event of a theft.

To make an appointment, call Borough police at 924-4141, Township police at 921-2100, or the University Public Safety Office at 452-3134.

As an example of computer efficiency, Chief Carnevale reported that Sgt. Donald Dawson had found an abandoned 10-speed bicycle on Saturday in a Maclean Street lot. The bicycle's serial number when fed into a National Crime Information Center computer revealed it had been stolen July 22 from Virginia Beach, Va. His officers, he said, have been in contact with Virginia Beach police in an attempt to return the bike to its owner.

Other bicycles stolen here last week include a $160, 10-speed model, taken during a three-hour period Friday afternoon from a rack at Frick Lab on the university campus — the bike was not locked — and a student's $250, 12-speed taken overnight from the front porch of Colonial Club on Prospect Avenue. That bike was locked. Another student listed the theft of his locked bicycle, which he valued at $180, from the 4th entry of Spelman Hall.

Also, a Township resident joined the list of victims when his 18-speed Raleigh bike, valued at $318, was taken from a garage at 248 Nassau Street behind the Ivy Club. Chief Carnevale reported the bike, taken last Wednesday evening between 10 and 11:40, had been secured with a chain lock but the chain had been cut.

Lastly, a 10-speed Peugeot bicycle valued at $235 was stolen during the weekend from a garage at the rear of a Murray Place home — the day before the owner moved to Delaware. Both the bike and the garage were unlocked.

years she has taught middle school English and history at Princeton Day School.

73rd Fall French Market To Open Friday, Sept. 11

The mini-park opposite TOWN TOPICS will be home to the Fall French Market beginning Friday, September 11. For 73 years, fall flowers have been sold at the French Market to benefit the Garden Club of Princeton's civic and community endeavors. Its newest effort is the restoration of the gardens at Morven. This is a special project of the Garden Club of America, of which the Garden Club of Princeton was a founding member.

In addition to the brilliant colors of fall's cut flowers — marigolds, zinnias, chrysanthemums — the market will feature hanging baskets, wreaths, rooted cuttings of houseplants, divisions of perennials, herbs in pots to grow indoors, and potpourri. Also available will be homemade

New Board Members Set By Newgrange School

Harry S. Herz, president of the board of trustees of The Newgrange School, has announced the election of six new members to the board.

They are Dr. Jon K. Clemens, president, Chronar Corporation; Dr. Roger W. Cohen, technology liaison manager, Exxon Corporate Research Laboratories; Lois Dowey, Crisis Ministry Project Director, Nassau Presbyterian Church; Dr. Michael Kaplan, Associate Test Examiner, Educational Testing Service; Jean McDonough, retired director of Media Services, Princeton Regional Schools; and Dr. James Oliver, dental surgeon, East Brunswick.

Mr. Herz has also announced the establishment of the Mary Elliott Wislar Library Collection, in honor of Mrs. Wislar, a past board member and president of the Newgrange Board from 1982-84, who worked tirelessly for Newgrange over the years.

Newgrange, a school for students of average to above-average potential who have not been academically successful, has recently relocated to a school building on Lafayette Avenue in Hamilton Township. It will celebrate the beginning of its second decade during the 1987-88 school year.

NJ State Museum Begins Planetarium Renovation

The New Jersey State Museum has begun a major renovation of its planetarium.

The museum will acquire a new Minolta MS-10 planetarium instrument to replace the one installed in the facility in 1965. The chamber and exhibit areas will be refurbished with new carpeting and reupholstered seats, a new projection gallery will be constructed behind the dome, and a computer-operated slide and special effects control system will be installed.

The planetarium exhibition gallery will also receive a new look. A new, three-dimensional exhibit on the solar system will be added, photographs of the planets taken by spacecraft will be exhibited, and a section of the exhibition area will be devoted to a history of the way astronomers have looked at space.

The program is for children age seven and older. "What's Up," to be shown at 3 p.m., is a slide-illustrated program for family groups with younger children. These programs will be offered through November 29. The planetarium and exhibit areas are scheduled to reopen in December.

Princeton Art Association Expands Its Fall Schedule

More than 35 classes will be offered this fall for young people and adults in beginner and advanced levels at the Princeton Art Association on Stockton Street. Classes begin September 27. Most classes meet once a week for 10 weeks. Prospective students may register anytime, by mail or in person.

New to the 1987 schedule are several classes for both adults and young people. Geri DePaoli will teach a class in Chinese painting and calligraphy on Wednesday mornings. Ms. DePaoli studied with a Shanghai master and has lectured extensively on Far Eastern art. "How to Look at Modern Art: New Perspectives, New Ideas," will also be taught by Ms. DePaoli.

For newcomers to art, "Orientation to Art" will be presented by a different PAA instructor each week. Students will experiment with watercolor, weaving, drawing, sculpture and mixed-media, without having to make the commitment of time or money to a whole semester of a single medium.

Artists will share their work with peers and have critiques by an instructor in "Artist's Seminar." Barbara Osterman, instructor, has taught at Moore College of Art and received the Outstanding Art Educator award from the Pennsylvania Art Education Association in 1985.

Princeton Man Is Sought On Embezzlement Charge

Timothy J. Sheehan Jr., an attorney and Princeton resident, is being sought by federal and state authorities who are investigating his client trust accounts.

Mr. Sheehan has been charged by the U.S. Attorney's Office in Newark with one count of embezzlement for allegedly taking $147,000 that was being held in an escrow account for a client. The single count will be used to extradite Mr. Sheehan from Canada, where he is believed to be staying with a daughter, or to arrest him when he re-enters the United States.

The client is William C. Baggett, a West Windsor attorney who represented Mr. Sheehan during the 1970's in Mr. Sheehan's running battle with Borough officials over the office building he wanted to construct at the corner of Nassau Street and Markham Road. Mr. Baggett filed for personal and corporate bankruptcy in 1985.

According to an account in a Newark newspaper, during the bankruptcy proceedings Mr. Sheehan repeatedly defied court orders requiring him to disclose the whereabouts of $147,000 he was to have deposited in his trust account in connection with the sale of an office building owned by Mr. Baggett.

Mr. Sheehan told the bankruptcy court he had withdrawn the money as cash and kept it in his bedroom closet for nearly a year. He added that he later put the money in a safe deposit box in Massachusetts, but when the box was opened under court order this summer it contained only some matches and family photographs.

Mr. Sheehan's wife, Barbara, has also been cited for contempt of court because she ignored a court order to answer questions about the safe deposit box, which was in her name. If convicted of embezzlement, Mr. Sheehan could be imprisoned for five years and fined $250,000 maximum, according to an assistant U.S. attorney in charge of the bankruptcy fraud unit in the U.S. Attorney's Office.

Another Legal Tangle. Mr. Sheehan also faces suspension or disbarment for refusing to turn over records of his trust accounts, which he claims would betray the whereabouts of still another client. This client is believed to be Asa Farr, a Montgomery resident who disappeared with his wife seven years ago owing more than $1 million to creditors.

A former president of the Somerset County Park Commission, who was involved in a variety of business ventures, Mr. Farr once testified at federal grand jury proceedings involving Anthony DeAngelis, who was convicted of masterminding the notorious 1963 missing salad oil fraud. Mr. Sheehan apparently handled various legal matters for the Farris, including setting up the corporation which holds the mortgages on the 34-acre estate in Montgomery they abandoned.

A year ago, when questions arose about Mr. Sheehan's handling of the Baggett bankruptcies and he was asked to turn over his trust account records, he wrote the state attorney ethics office investigating the matter that an examination of his trust accounts would "disclose the location of a particular client who came to me some time ago" when the client's "security was in doubt" and "his life had been threatened."

Longtime Princeton residents may remember "the Sheehan building," an unfinished concrete shell at the corner of Nassau Street and Markham Road which was the subject of a running battle between Mr. Sheehan and the Borough of Princeton for more than a decade.

In 1968, Mr. Sheehan began site work for an office building on property he had purchased in 1954. The Borough decided it wanted to keep big office buildings out of the residential neighborhood and rezoned the property. A clause in the new 1968 zoning ordinance cancelled all building permits unless "substantial" construction had begun by a certain date.

Although other developers backed down, Mr. Sheehan went ahead with his building. The case wound through the courts. Mr. Sheehan won his building permit in a unanimous Appellate Court decision and later received permission to put shops on the ground floor.

At one time he planned a seven-story structure with a bar on the top floor, using the Brown Jug liquor license he had acquired. Building costs had risen, however, and he began to experience economic difficulties. The original permission to build expired.

Neighbors became concerned about the safety hazards of the unfinished structure. Finally, in November, 1979, the Hillier organization bought the shell from the savings and loan company that had foreclosed on the mortgage. Today, the building is part of a condominium apartment complex on both sides of Markham Road.

In an attempt to show that he had been unfairly discriminated against by the 1968 zoning change, Mr. Sheehan frequently challenged the Borough Zoning Board when it granted a variance on other developments. He sued the Hillier organization, for instance, to keep it from using the bulk variances it had received for the construction of townhouses on Moore and Willow streets.

Jasna Polana

Receipt of the certificate of occupancy will trigger a new assessment by the Township Tax Assessor Carol Caskey. The new assessment would take into consideration the new usage and the new construction.

Based on her assessment of the Toll Brothers lots, Mrs. Caskey estimates that each of the lots Mrs. Johnson is proposing could be assessed at $165,000. At the 1987 tax rate of $2.78 per $100 of value, each lot would bring in $4,587 in new tax revenue.

Appeal in Process. Mrs. Johnson is currently appealing a September, 1985 ruling by the New Jersey Tax Court that upheld the Township's assessment of the 33,500-square-foot Jasna Polana mansion and its surrounding 113 acres. The appeal is the latest maneuver in a 12-year effort by the Johnsons to reduce the assessments, and thus the property taxes, on different parts of the property. The appeal was filed with the Appellate Division in January, 1986 and is still pending. Unless it is withdrawn by Mrs. Johnson, it may be heard this fall.

The Jasna Polana estate comprises almost 126 acres in Princeton Township and another 14 acres in Lawrence Township. It was acquired in the early 1970's in two parcels by Seward Johnson, a son of the late Robert Wood Johnson who built the Johnson and Johnson Company to profitability and prominence.

Seward Johnson was married in 1971 to Polish-born Barbara Piasecka, his third wife and a former employee in the Johnson household. Together they built the elaborate mansion she named Jasna Polana, after Tolstoy's country estate.

Essentially a two-bedroom house with a guest wing and an art gallery built around a courtyard, Jasna Polana was built on a scale and with recreation facilities and security precautions not normally included in a residential dwelling. Using extensive imported European materials and labor, it cost at least $21 million to construct, and perhaps more than $30 million.

Starting in 1975, the year Jasna Polana was completed, the Johnsons took issue with the Township's assessment of this property as well as the assessment of the smaller lot fronting on Route 206 which includes the Georgian brick mansion that came with the property and several outbuildings.

Mr. Johnson died in May, 1983. The most recent appeal was filed at a time when Mrs. Johnson was embroiled in a separate lawsuit with Mr. Johnson's six children by his previous marriages over his estate. Her appeal of the 1985 Tax Court ruling which upheld the Township's $8.3 million assessment of the Jasna Polana property may have been a tactical maneuver in that case, which was being tried in New York City at the time.

Mrs. Johnson currently pays more than one quarter of a million dollars annually in taxes on her Township properties. However, if she is going to become a developer and take advantage of Princeton's current real estate boom, as the proposed five-lot subdivision seems to indicate, Township officials hope she will drop the tax case which has cost the municipality more than $100,000 to defend over the past dozen years.

—Barbara L. Johnson

Clarification: There are several Barbara Johnsons in Princeton. The Town Topics writer is no relation of Barbara P. Johnson, third wife of the late J. Seward Johnson, nor of Barbara Johnson, former wife of J. Seward Johnson Jr.

Manual brushing removes less than half the plaque buildup that can lead to gum disease. But the new INTERPLAK® Home Plaque Removal Instrument cleans teeth virtually plaque-free. That's because INTERPLAK has ten tufts of bristles that rotate 4,200 times a minute, scouring off plaque and stimulating your gums. Yet the bristles are four times softer than the softest toothbrush. Each cordless INTERPLAK comes with two interchangeable heads. Plus, you can get more heads to help every family member fight plaque.

In 1967 we displayed photographs of our clientele to introduce Men's Hairstyling and, of course, were quickly discovered by women. A year later, by popular demand, we became the first Unisex Hairstyling Studio in New Jersey.

Eventually, the State of New Jersey invited us to assist in formulating a new 'Hair' profession by homogenizing both state boards governing Barbers and Beauticians. In 1970 we expanded our services to include

Prior to joining Hillier in 1986, Mr. Chimacoff was full professor of architecture and director of graduate studies at the Princeton University School of Architecture.

The board of directors of Applied Data Research, Inc., has announced several top management changes. ADR President Dennis F. Strigl was elected to the additional post of chief executive officer, replacing John R. Bennett, who retains the title of chairman. Executive Vice President William T. Clifford succeeds Mr. Strigl as chief operating officer.

Mr. Bennett, of Skillman, will retire at the end of the year and will become a consultant to ADR. He joined ADR in 1966 and was named president and chief executive officer in 1970. He was elected chairman in 1981.

Mr. Strigl, 41, of Pennington, joined ADR in September, 1986, and after serving as president of Ameritech Mobile Communications in Chicago. Mr. Clifford, 41, of Lawrence, joined ADR in 1982 and was named executive vice president in September, 1986. All three men continue as members of ADR's board of directors.

Arnold Associates, a landscape architectural firm headed by Henry F. Arnold, has been selected to prepare preliminary designs for the development of a 3.7-mile-long walkway in Jersey City along the Hackensack River.

This pedestrian path would provide public access to a riverscape that contrasts industrial scenery with marsh lands. The riverwalk is intended to become a link in a more extensive development of parks and walkways connecting the urbanized riverfronts in northern New Jersey.

RELIGION

Couple Are Appointed At United Methodist

The Rev. William H. Jacobsen has joined the staff at Princeton United Methodist Church as its new minister of Christian nurture. His wife, Mary Jacobsen, has accepted the position of organist.

Mr. Jacobsen is an ordained minister in the Evangelical Covenant Church (an established denomination with a Swedish Lutheran historical background). He received his Master of Theology degree in June from Princeton Theological Seminary, his M. Div. degree in 1976 from Bethel Seminary (a Baptist General Conference School), and a B.A. degree in religion from Macalester College (a Presbyterian college in St. Paul, Minn.) in 1970.

He served several pastorates in Minnesota and has lived and worked in city, suburban and country environments. At one church he chaired a committee which organized a youth group of approximately 100-150 teenagers who met in the Church social hall on Friday nights after school football and basketball games. This youth group drew teenagers from area churches of all denominations as well as "unchurched" teenagers.

Mr. Jacobsen also has many years of experience as a Sunday School teacher, confirmation class teacher, Bible study group leader and leader of education seminars.

Mrs. Jacobsen served as interim organist at Princeton United Methodist last spring. She holds a B.A. in music education and keyboard performance from Macalester College and is a certified public school music teacher. She has taught privately; served as a church organist, and worked as musical director/accompanist for community theater groups.

The Rev. and Mrs. Jacobsen

The Separated and Divorced Catholic's Support Group at St. Paul's Church will meet Monday, September 14, at 8 p.m. in St. Paul's School cafeteria.

All persons wishing to find support as they deal with issues related to divorce are encouraged to attend.

The consultants are also recommending an additional access he provided on Hartley Avenue. They point out that the existing entrances and exits at Hartley and Sycamore Avenue require traffic to travel through the entire development on its way in or out.

Following review by the Site Plan Review Advisory Board, the proposal will be scheduled for consideration and vote by the Planning Board. This housing proposal is one of a series of Princeton University projects now making their way through the municipal planning process. The proposed computer building was narrowly approved in August.

Plans for the new economics building are also on file at the Planning Board.

Princeton-Based International Research & Exchanges Board Is the Primary Channel for U.S.-Soviet Scholarly Exchanges

An opening with the Mongolian People's Republic and new opportunities for Soviet-American cooperation in music, theater, dance, library science and secondary school education are among the recent achievements of the International Research and Exchanges Board (IREX).

In the year since it moved to Princeton from New York, IREX has chalked up some impressive gains in its continuing mission as the chief channel for communication with the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe to facilitate scholarly and research exchanges. IREX was founded in 1968 as an "activity" of the American Council of Learned Societies — itself a federation of some 45 national scholarly organizations — and is co-sponsored by the Social Science Research Council.

IREX Executive Director Allen Kassof is a Princeton resident and a Soviet specialist who spent much of his summer traveling to the Soviet Union, Eastern Europe and Asia to negotiate new agreements to broaden the scope of IREX-funded and organized exchanges and commissions. To describe the origins of IREX, he goes back to 1958, when the first US-Soviet exchanges took place as the result of government-to-government agreements.

Universities, which had been fearful of being labeled "soft" on Communism during the McCarthy era, formed an Inter-University Committee to facilitate travel grants to the USSR. Rotating between Harvard, Yale and Columbia as the original participants, the committee grew to include 75 universities, and it was decided that a permanent organization was needed. IREX took on not only this committee's efforts but also a Ford Foundation program which had brought people here from East European countries and an existing exchange program between the Soviet Academy of Science and the American Council of Learned Societies.

Individual Exchanges. Today IREX conducts advanced research exchange programs with Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, the German Democratic Republic, Hungary, Poland, Rumania, the USSR, and Yugoslavia. Under these programs, graduate students and post-doctoral researchers live abroad and pursue independent projects for periods of up to one year. More than 2,500 Americans have participated in IREX exchanges, publishing some 3,600 books and articles on their research.

Allen H. Kassof

30 years of exchanges with the Soviets are beginning to have an effect.

The exchanges are negotiated strictly on the basis of one American Soviet or East European specialist for each Soviet or East European who wants to learn more about some facet of this country. Thus there are as many scholars and researchers who have returned to the USSR and Soviet bloc countries with first-hand knowledge of American social, political, cultural and economic affairs as there are Americans visiting Communist nations.

Dr. Kassof feels that, after almost 30 years, the effect of this reciprocal scholarly traffic is beginning to be felt. "The people who started as analysts are now becoming actors," he says. "The scholars, researchers and communicators have become policy makers."

He cites the example of Alexander Yakovlev, who studied history at Columbia as a 1959-60 exchange participant and is now a ranking member of the Soviet Politburo. "That doesn't mean he loves us," Dr. Kassof notes.

Western Influence. "But if you look at what is happening in the USSR now," he continues, "it is clear that change is being driven by the academic and cultural institutions. The people we have been dealing with over a 20-year period now occupy the No. 2 and No. 3 positions in the government. Far from being on the periphery, these scholars are very close to the center.

"As changes come about from inside the system, the tone and content may be influenced by the contacts with the west. The character of the changes and where they end up may be shaped in due course by the contacts over the 30-year period. We at IREX always had faith in what we were doing, and even though it would have been foolish to predict this outcome, it points up the importance of the longtime investment."

Dr. Kassof also thinks the level of information in this country about the Soviet Union has improved substantially over the last five or 10 years. "The fund of information on the Soviet Union is really very, very large, in striking contrast to what it was 20 years ago. It may not be sufficiently used," he adds, "but it exists."

In addition to individual exchanges which involve 350 people traveling in both directions each year, IREX is jointly responsible with East European and Soviet academies of science and other scholarly organizations for special commissions which bring together specialists to work on joint projects. IREX commissions with the Soviet Union annually sponsor more than 100 joint projects with the USSR Academy of Sciences, the USSR Ministry of Education, and other Soviet ministries.

New Additions. There are also Commissions with the Hungarian Academy of Sciences, the Polish Academy of Sciences, and the German Democratic Republic. The most recent addition is a commission with the Czechoslovak Academy of Sciences which will begin a series of collaborative projects in art history and other projects in the humanities and social sciences. Harry Woolf of the Institute for Advanced Study, an IREX board member, took part in the negotiations for this commission.

In June, an agreement between the American Council of Learned Societies (ACLS) and the Union of Composers of the USSR established a new Commission on Music Composition

News of The THEATRES

Off-Broadstreet Theatre Offering Subscriptions

Season subscriptions for Off-Broadstreet Theatre's new season are still available. The season-opener, N. Richard Nash's The Rainmaker, is now playing.

Off-Broadstreet Theatre is entering its fourth year of producing shows that run the gamut from Neil Simon comedies to musical revues. The Rainmaker is the story of an itinerant con artist whose $100 fee to produce rain brings a more wonderful miracle in the transformation of the drab spinster, Lizzie Curry, into a warm and attractive woman. The play runs through September 12.

For the first musical of the season, producers Robert and Julie Thick have chosen Taking My Turn, an off-Broadway production of 1983. The show has music reminiscent of the 1940's and was written by the team that produced the long-running The McThot Nobody Knows. Performances are September 18 through October 24.

Neil Simon's I Ought to Be in Pictures is next, playing from October 30 to November 28. It is about a Hollywood writer who left wife and family 16 years earlier and suddenly finds his precocious 19-year old daughter on his doorstep.

LOOKING SKYWARD, where dreams — and rain come from — are Jack Friedel as Starbuck and Todd Staats as Jimmy in "The Rainmaker" at the Off Broadstreet Dessert Theatre. Performances are Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 and Sundays at 2:30 through September 12. Dessert tables open an hour before performance time, and admission includes dessert before the show.

The musical comedy, My Husband, the Wife, from the play The Marriage Bed, about a "legal-beagle" wife and a master-chef husband, opens December 4 and runs through January 9. The season closes with D.L. Coburn's Pulitzer Prize winning The Gin Game, January 15 through February 13. This bittersweet play set in a nursing home pits Weller Martin and Fonsia Dorsey in a game of wit and challenge over the card table.

Season subscriptions, offering substantial savings over individual ticket prices, are available for a table of two for all five shows for $116.85 on Friday and Sunday, and $127.50 for Saturday evening performances. Dessert, fruit, and coffee or tea are included.

For information or reservations contact the theater at 5 South Greenwood Avenue, Hopewell, phone 466-2766.

Open House Is Planned By McCarter Theater

McCarter Theatre will hold its annual Open House on Sunday, September 13, from 1 to 4, rain or shine.

The community is invited to see not only the "front of the house," but also to tour the backstage and to take the shuttle to the scene and costume shops. The Open House will also feature a special effects demonstration and a demonstration by the Princeton Ballet Society on stage as well as talks on the history of McCarter Theatre.

The open house is an opportunity to learn of the many programs McCarter has to offer. Information will be available on the performance series in dance and music as well as in drama and for children. Information will also be available on McCarter's Training Wing classes and its outreach programs.

Participants may learn how they can become part of the usher corps or the front-of-house staff, or how to join the McCarter Associates. Youngsters may sign up for auditions to play the Cratchitt children in A Christmas Carol.

The Open House will include food vendors and free gifts. For further information, call 683-9100.

New Dancers Are Sought For School Performances

Teamwork Dance will hold auditions for adult dancer/actors to participate in its show for elementary school students, the Teamwork Demonstration. Auditions will be held on Wednesday, September 9, at 7 p.m. at the School of Princeton Ballet, 262 Alexander Street.

These school shows are presented under the auspices of Young Audiences of New Jersey. They are a light introduction to dance, and require energetic, enthusiastic performers with a background in ballet, modern dance or jazz, plus acting experience. Performances are paid. Both male and female performers are needed and should bring a resume.

For more information, call the director, Mary Pat Robertson at (201) 359-6752.

10th Anniversary Season Announced by Crossroads

The Crossroads Theatre Company has announced its 10th anniversary season, which will include a world premiere comedy, a holiday musical and two New Jersey premieres.

The 1987-88 season opens on Saturday, September 19, at 8:30 p.m. with Spell #7 by Ntozake Sange, the author of For Colored Girls Who Have Considered Suicide When the Rainbow Is Enuf. Spell #7 is set in a midtown bar patronized by black performing artists. Through poetry, music and dance, each artist reflects on being black in a white society and the obstacles they face while pursuing commercial success. Directed by Dean Irby, who directed last season's production of The River Niger, Spell #7 runs through October 8.

Following Spell #7 will be the New Jersey premiere of Woza Albert by Percy Mtwa, Mbogeni Ngema and Barney Simon. This two-man show is based on the idea that the Second Coming of Jesus Christ should take place in present day South Africa. Woza Albert runs October 28-November 22.

Sophisticated Ladies, a musical tribute to Duke Ellington, will celebrate the holiday season in high style. Running December 2-January 22, Sophisticated Ladies begins in the early stages of the Duke's career

For Black History Month, Crossroads celebrates the legendary jazz singer Billie Holiday with the New Jersey premiere of Lody Day at Emerson's Bar and Grill, February 2-March 6. This one-woman show captures the essence of her life and the major events that shaped the life of Lady Day.

From March 16-April 10 a play is still to be announced. Crossroads is considering Bonnie Lee Rattner Moss' adaptation of To Gleam It Around, To Show My Shine based on Zora Neale Hurston's novel Their Eyes Were Watching God, or The Robbit Foot, a new comedy drama by Leslie Lee, the author of last season's Honnoh Davis.

Closing out Crossroads' tenth season is a world premier comedy, In the House of Johnson, by Don Evans. From the author of Staggerlee and A Lovesong for Miss Lydio, it is the story of what happens when a young black man decides to buy the plantation where his great-grandmother was once a slave, only to find out the place is haunted. In the House of Johnson runs April 20-May 22.

Subscriptions ranging from $55 to $125 are still available.

Fall Schedule Available For Westminster Concerts

Westminster Choir College has announced its fall schedule of performances on campus. Included are concerts by Westminster's three choirs, as well as recitals by members of both the College and Conservatory faculties.

New in the schedule this year are the days and times of faculty recitals. For the 1987-88 season, the Conservatory faculty recitals will begin Sundays at 4 p.m., and the College faculty recitals will begin at 8 p.m. All are in Bristol Chapel on the Westminster campus.

Of particular interest are the performances planned for the Christmas holidays. Christmas at Westminster will feature faculty and student recitals, as well as concerts by the Westminster choirs, Chamber Orchestra, and six performances by the Westminster Opera Theatre of Gian-Carlo Menotti's Amahl and the Night Visitors.

There is an admission charge for some events. Student and senior citizen discounts are available.

In addition to the on-campus concerts, the Westminster Symphonic Choir will perform with both the New York Philharmonic and the Philadelphia Orchestra during the 1987-88 season. This December, it will perform Faure's Requiem with the New York Philharmonic December 3, 4, 5, and 8 at Lincoln Center. For ticket information, call the Lincoln Center box office.

Westminster students also present many recitals during the year. They are open to the public at no charge.

All performances are subject to change. For current information regarding all concerts on the Westminster campus, call the Westminster Concerts Office at 921-7100 ext. 307.

Trinity College Choir On Tour From England

The Trinity College Choir of Cambridge University, England, will perform a concert of sacred and secular music covering nearly five centuries at Trinity Church on Saturday, September 12. The concert begins at 8:30 p.m. Admission is $10, or $8 for students with ID.

The Trinity College Choir, directed by Dr. Richard Marlow, is a mixed-voice college choir at Cambridge University, an institution long known for its musical excellence. Formed five years ago, after the College began accepting women, the Trinity College Choir has made several commercial recordings and has toured throughout the world, including a 1985 tour to North America. The choir's Epiphany Carol Service is broadcast live over the BBC each January, and this December the BBC will present the Trinity Choir's Advent Carol Service.

Dr. Marlow came to Trinity in 1968, after teaching at Southampton University. He is director of music at the College and lectures in the music faculty. In addition, he has conducted, lectured and given keyboard recitals in several European countries, as well as Japan, New Zealand and North America.

Included in the choir's repertoire for this tour is Benjamin Britten's Ceremony of Carols. Harpist Imogen Barford, a graduate of Cambridge and now a professional musician, will accompany.

The choir is on a three-week concert tour of North America, performing 17 concerts in Canada and the eastern United States.

Membership is open to all experienced band instrumentalists. High school juniors and seniors should present a recommendation from their music teacher.

The Community Band rehearses each Monday evening from 7:30 to 9:45. The first rehearsal of the new season will be Monday, September 14. Sponsored by Mercer County Community College, the band rehearses and performs a wide spectrum of concert band music, ranging from popular and show music to traditional music, transcriptions and original works.

Those interested in becoming members of the Community Band should call John Kulpa of MCCC's Music Department at 586-4800, extension 735.

Tuesday, August 25, 1987

To all qualified choral singers
in the Princeton area:

In July of 1986 I had published in TOWN TOPICS a letter similar to this one, having to do with the Berlioz "Requiem." As a result of that letter, 35 members of the community participated in April performances in Richardson Auditorium in a way that did not interfere with their regular memberships in church choirs and community choruses.

I am emboldened to do much the same thing again this coming season, but of course with a different work in mind. On February 26 and 27, 1988, I will be conducting the combined Princeton University Glee Club and Princeton University Chapel Choir in a program that will include the BRAHMS' "TRIUMPHLIED." This is a major work by Brahms, about a half-hour long, for large double chorus and large orchestra. Because of the difficulty of raising the huge forces (much like the Berlioz), it is rarely performed, and I do not remember reading or hearing about performances in the major performing centers during my lifetime (which is by now, alas, a major portion of this century!)

As with the Berlioz, the performances will take place in Richardson Auditorium, under excellent circumstances. The presence of the Brahms on the program will, even on this one point alone, make the concerts distinctive musical events. Also as with the Berlioz, I would like to gather about 50 additional singers, selected by audition from the community. The additional chorus will rehearse no more than once a week during the major part of the preparation, and will probably begin its rehearsals in early October. Conflicts will be avoided with the rehearsals of other musical organizations, as implied in the first paragraph.

If you are an experienced soprano, alto, tenor or bass, and if you are interested (at the very least in finding out more about this proposal), please phone Mrs. Custis Clark at 452-3048 weekday mornings between 9 a.m. and noon, beginning on Wednesday, September 2. She will answer any questions you may have, and assign you an audition time if you wish to proceed further. Many thanks.

Sincerely yours,

Walter Nollner

LET'S TALK ABOUT
AUTUMN PLANTING with Sam DeTuro
Woodwinds Associates
Now is a good time to plant trees and shrubs; if you do plan to add one or two trees to your property, here are some hints and warnings!
Choose a tree according to its fall foliage colors in the nursery. The color it takes on in late September will be the same for the rest of its life.
Be sure to prepare the soil outside the hole where the root ball will be placed. Most of the soil in this area requires breaking-up and aeration to promote new root growth after planting.
Mix a good tree food into the loosened soil; include some compost, peat moss or forest humus. Do not use lawn fertilizer.
Be sure to plant the new tree at exactly the same ground level that it enjoyed in the nursery... never any more than an inch deeper. Transplanted roots need to breathe air.
Soak the soil thoroughly with water every ten days. Never plant a medium or large tree species within fifteen feet of a building foundation, avoid placement near sidewalks, driveways and utility trenches in the ground.
Be sure that the nursery supplies a good amount of soil (root ball) around the roots of the tree. The ball should be ten times the size of the trunk.
WOODWINDS is always happy to answer any questions concerning your trees and shrubs... please call us (924-3500).

Drivers, Bikers, Walkers All Endangered by Roads

To the Editor of Town Topics:
This is an open letter to the governing bodies of Princeton Borough and Township on a matter of public concern:

Our cars, our drivers, our bicyclists and even pedestrians are endangered by the lamentable state of Princeton's roads.

We would like to know to what standard of repair are contractors held who dig in the public streets and who is responsible for enforcing that the standards be met.

If current ordinances governing such contractors allow them to leave the seemingly permanent trenches, lumps, bumps and other convolutions we have all experienced in the re-paved surfaces, then we suggest that such ordinances be amended to eliminate these hazardous and unsightly results.

The citizens of this community deserve to be provided with the basic amenity of smoothly paved streets.

Tiger Football Team Will Need Stronger Defense To Match Expected Improvement in Its Offense

This is the second in a series of pre-season articles about the Princeton football team)

On the way to its 2-8 record last season, the Princeton football team, we noted last week, produced just 123 points, the lowest output in 10 years.

While the offense sputtered, the defense was a sieve, allowing more than twice that many, 262 (versus 212 in 1986). In a large majority of the contests, it gave up a lot of points early on, putting the team in a hole. Unlike some of the Princeton teams in past years, this one

YOU'LL SEE A LOT OF NO. 11 THIS FALL: First team all-Ivy selection Dean Cain led Princeton in tackles as a junior, and is likely to do so again in his free safety position. He has 10 interceptions to his credit in two seasons, just two shy of the career record of 12 held by Pete Lips '70.

Picture Brighter This Year. This fall there is a better spread across the board in the defense. There is good size in the down linemen, more depth in the secondary, and a couple of promising sophomores looking to break into the starting line-up.

Rob Henricks (6'4, 243) the

Foster, Bormann Out

Two seniors expected to compete for positions on the Tigers' offensive platoon will not do so this fall.

Chris Bormann, who had been expected to compete with Dave Blazejewski for the starting center position, has decided to forgo football in favor of his studies. His decision not to play opens the way for a couple of sophomores and one junior, who may be asked to try out for center.

The junior is Mark Shapiro, (6'1, 268); the sophomores Greg Lewandowski (6'3, 215), and Bob Surace (6'2, 205). The coaching staff is hoping to get a somewhat taller player in the position than they have had in the past.

Halfback Steve Foster's career has been ended for medical reasons. After suffering a back injury in an automobile accident last summer, he sat out his junior year, and had hoped to play again this fall. But the senior halfback did not pass the University's pre-season physical, and cannot compete.

Princeton has good depth at running back, but not in the offensive line.

winner of the "Pink" Baker award (top defensive player on the freshman team) two years ago, will contend for a starting spot. At left end, senior Bart Stoehr (6'1, 233), best remembered for his crushing tackle in the '85 Yale game that produced a key fumble, could step into the spot vacated by Elton. He'll be pushed by Rick Emery (6'4, 210), who was a standout player for the freshmen last fall, and the '86 recipient of the Baker award.

Linebacker: Captain Matt Whalen (6'0, 206), the first solo captain since Dan Fournier in 1976, will anchor the linebacking corps. He was the Tigers' third leading tackler last season, leading the team with 10 in the Penn game.

Next to him in the middle will be classmate Pete Milano (6-0, 208), another starter last fall, who finished just behind Whalen on the list of top tacklers. Senior Mike Demilio (6'0, 212) and junior Ray Ryan (6'1, 214) are expected to challenge for the other outside linebacker position that belonged to Matt Heisler.

Three promising sophomores will provide good depth at this position, and one might claim that third starting spot. Gary Kempinski (6'0, 214), Franco Pagnanelli (6-0, 227), and Robert Spenik (6'1, 195) will be pushing those upperclassmen.

Secondary. There is depth here also and talent, too. Free safety Dean Cain (6'0, 180) is one of the top secondary players in the east. The senior had 10 interceptions over the past two seasons, and was the Orange and Black's leading tackler in 1986 with 76.

Top candidates at the cornerback slots are Sean Brennan (5'9, 170), a starter last season, and Mark Feuerer (6-1, 170), who saw plenty of action as a reserve. Senior Dave Wilson (6'0, 195), who played behind Cain, may move into the strong safety or "Tiger Back" spot.

Other contenders for secondary spots include senior Wit Hall (6'0, 180), who missed all of last season because of a back injury and three sophomores, Brian Wietharn (5'11, 185), a converted running back, Frank Leal (6'0, 180), and Vince Avallone (5'10, 170). Junior Derek Schrier (6'0, 168) has suffered a pre-season injury, torn ligaments, and will be out three to four weeks.

SPORTS

was not going to be successful playing catch-up football.

Over the years a stout defense has provided more success for teams in the battle for the Ivy title than a high-powered offense. In 23 of the 31 years since league play was formalized in 1956, the team allowing the fewest points scored won or shared the title.

The last time the Tigers claimed it — 1969 — they gave up just 138 points in nine games (74 in league play). They have never come close to that total since.

The defense suffered from the same personnel problems as the offense: the loss of several key players through graduation who were not adequately replaced. These included Jim Petrucci, Anthony DiTommaso, Lorne Keller and Jim Anderson.

Kicking Gamie. The Tigers have their placement kicker back, but must develop a new punter. Senior Rob Goodwin (6-2, 185) will handle the kickoffs and PAT's for the third straight year. He'll be seeking to keep Princeton's streak of 83 successful PAT's alive.

Scott Sellers (6-4, 200), a reserve quarterback, is one of several players who will get a shot at the punting chores. Rob DiGiacomo was a big plus for Princeton in this department a year ago, finishing second in the league in average yards per kick.

Hinkson's Wins Playoffs In 3 Over Andy's Tavern

Its pitching and defense progressively squeezing the Andy's Tavern offense dry, Hinkson's Stationers last week won the playoffs of the Princeton Recreation Men's Softball League.

After giving up 12 runs in the opening game of the best-of-three playoffs, a 12-11 slugfest won by Andy's, Hinkson's limited the regular-season champions to four runs in winning the second game, 5-4. In the championship game, Hinkson's smothered Andy's offense for a 4-1 triumph. The losers' top four hitters batted 0-12.

The victory was a measure of and Musicology. The agreement was negotiated by Wesley Fisher of IREX, who serves as secretary to the ACLS's various commissions on the USSR.

Although performances by Soviet musicians in this country are well-known and frequent — as are performances by American musicians in the USSR — there has not been a channel for non-commercial contacts involving American and Soviet musicologists and ethno-musicologists, theorists and composers.

Milton Babbitt, professor of music at Princeton University and a well-known composer, took part in the first meeting of this commission in Moscow shortly after the agreement was signed. Paul Lansky and Robert Sadin, also of the Princeton University Music Department, were part of a delegation of nine young American composers, performers and music theorists who traveled to the Soviet Union for a symposium and concerts with their counterparts.

Mongolian Initiative. Perhaps the most interesting new development is what Dr. Kassof calls "the agreement to have an agreement" with the Mongolian People's Republic (MPR). For several years, at the request of China and Japan, both of which sought more information on the Soviet Union for their own benefit, IREX has sponsored a series of conferences in Beijing and Tokyo which focused on the USSR as an Asian and Pacific power.

These conferences, and the announcement last January of the establishment of US-MPR diplomatic relations, set the stage for opening up a channel for long-term research. In early August, Dr. Kassof made the 30-hour train trip across the Gobi Desert from Beijing to Ulan Bator, the Mongolian capital, to help negotiate an agreement with the Mongolian Academy of Sciences.

Stanley Katz, president of the ACLS, chairman of the IREX board, and a senior fellow at the Woodrow Wilson School, headed the delegation, which also included Daniel Matuszewski, associate director of IREX and director of its Soviet programs. The agreement is expected to be formalized when the president of the Mongolian Academy of Science comes to the U.S. later this year. The exchange of scholars could begin in 1988.

According to Dr. Kassof, the agreement is significant not only because of the strategic importance of the MPR, but also because of the rich lode of untapped manuscripts and archives pertaining to Tibetan and Buddhist culture.

Other Activities. In addition to the individual exchanges and the special purpose commissions, IREX also sponsors information sessions "on the Hill" in Washington to brief staff associates of Senators and Members of the House on the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe. During the summers, it sponsors special study in the Soviet Union for American teachers of the Russian language, as well as programs in the non-Russian languages spoken in the Soviet Union.

These activities, and others too numerous to be touched upon in a single newspaper article, are carried out by a staff of 25 at 126 Alexander Street. The largest portion of the $5.5 million budget comes from the United States Information Agency, the U.S. Department of State, and the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Dr. Kassof, who is responsible for administration, negotiations and fund-raising, worries that the $5.5 million is not enough to fund new exchanges. He feels that U.S.-Soviet relations are at a critical moment.

He is proud of the fact that IREX never suspended contacts, even when US-Soviet relations were at their worst — during the Vietnam War, after the invasion of Afghanistan and when the KAL airliner was shot down. Moreover exchanges were never used to give token approval or disapproval, he says, but were "a means of maintaining communication."

Patience Pays Off. "We are not a hands-across-the-sea operation," Dr. Kassof says. "And we are not sentimentalists. The best agreements with the Soviet Union and East European countries are those that are reciprocal and tough." He believes that persistence, tough-mindedness and what he calls "patience of vision" are beginning to pay off.

"You had to assume all along the exchanges were going to produce something, namely expert knowledge on East Europe and the Soviet Union, but how quickly they would have an effect on actual relations in this great post-war confrontation, we could not know."

Asked to speak about the future, Dr. Kassof says, "I think we have the best opportunity in 30 years to help shape the outcome of the tremendous changes about to take place in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe — and the changes that will probably take place in the American relationship with that part of the world. The key problem will be to see whether we can sustain American attention to these issues.

"The Soviet Union is now 'in,'" he continues, "but there is a chronic neglect of East Europe, which has been the breeding ground for a lot of the changes." Dr. Kassof thinks that a potential exists for the healing of the artificial ideological and cultural split which took place as a result of the Soviet division of Europe after the war and the imposition of Stalinist restrictions.

"There is a yearning of eastern and western Europe to see themselves as a unified civilization, and the U.S. ought to be eager to participate in the process. I have a powerful impression the post war era is over, and that we are entering a new era."

He bases his conclusion on demographics — a whole new generation of youth who don't remember the reasons for the split and don't understand it — and the fact that patterns, after a time, tend to exhaust themselves. "It presents a picture of some hope," Dr. Kassof says.
